Fractal Analysis Of Temporal Yield

In 2001, we determined the textural composition with the sedimentation method of Bouyoucos's with modifications by Casagrande and Prószyński, (), organic carbon content with the Tiurin titration method (Ostrowska et al., 1991), cation exchange capacity by neutralization of acidic groups with a barium chloride solution (), and pH in 1 M KCl using a complex electrode Orion Research in the ...

Spatial analysis or spatial statistics includes any of the formal techniques which study entities using their topological, geometric, or geographic properties. Spatial analysis includes a variety of techniques, many still in their early development, using different analytic approaches and applied in fields as diverse as astronomy, with its studies of the placement of galaxies in the cosmos, to ...

Fluorescence correlation spectroscopy (FCS) is a correlation analysis of fluctuation of the fluorescence intensity. The analysis provides parameters of the physics under the fluctuations. One of the interesting applications of this is an analysis of the concentration fluctuations of fluorescent particles (molecules) in solution.

1. Introduction. Gait is considered to be an important indicator of overall health; poor gait performance in older adults is associated with greater morbidity, mortality, and fall risk (Hausdorff et al., 2001; Studenski et al., 2011; Verghese et al., 2011).The idea that a fully functioning motor system is solely responsible for effective gait has been replaced by a more encompassing sensory ...

About. ParFlow is a numerical model that simulates the hydrologic cycle from the bedrock to the top of the plant canopy. It integrates three-dimensional groundwater flow with overland flow and plant processes using physically-based equations to rigorously simulate fluxes of water and energy in complex real-world systems.
