The Kyoto Protocol is an international treaty which extends the 1992 United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change (UNFCCC) that commits state parties to reduce greenhouse gas emissions, based on the scientific consensus that (part one) global warming is occurring and (part two) it is extremely likely that human-made CO<sub>2</sub> emissions have predominantly caused it.

The newly-released Summary for Policymakers of the IPCC's Working Group I for the AR5 report reveals a dogged attempt to salvage the IPCC's credibility amidst mounting evidence that it has gone overboard in its attempts to scare the global public over the last quarter century.. The recent ~15 year lull in warming is hardly mentioned at all (nothing to see here, move along).

SUMMARY: A simple model of the CO<sub>2</sub> concentration of the atmosphere is presented which fairly accurately reproduces the Mauna Loa observations 1959 through 2018. The model assumes the surface removes CO<sub>2</sub> at a rate proportional to the excess of atmospheric CO<sub>2</sub> above some equilibrium value. It is forced with estimates of yearly CO<sub>2</sub> emissions since 1750, as well as El Nino and La Nina effects.

What's Happening To Tuvalu Sea Level? Posted on 26 November 2011 by Rob Painting. Because the coral atoll of Funafati, Tuvalu is densely populated and generally less than 3 metres above sea level, this small island nation in the Pacific is often the subject of intense media speculation about the impact of rising seas. The atoll is likely to begin to be overtopped by the sea sometime between ...

Abstract: Positive linear climate feedback for combined water effects is shown to be incompatible with the Faint Sun Paradox. In particular, feedback values of  $\sim 2.0 \text{ W/m}^2 \text{ K}^{-1}$  favored by current GCM models lead to non physical results at solar radiation levels present one billion years ago. A simple model is described whereby Earth like planets with large liquid water surfaces can self-regulate ...

Table 1, Table 2 show how widespread the different forms of climate scepticism are among the British public (Objective 1). Table 1 shows that public belief in climate change has dropped significantly from 91% in 2005 to 78% in 2010, and that the group of individuals who express trend sceptical views, i.e. who do not believe that the world's climate is changing, has grown from 4% in 2005 to 15% ...
