A monopoly (from Greek $\mu\acute{o}\nu\omicron\varsigma$, $m\acute{o}nos$, 'single, alone' and $\pi\omega\lambda\epsilon\acute{\iota}\nu$, $p\acute{o}le\acute{i}n$, 'to sell') exists when a specific person or enterprise is the only supplier of a particular commodity. This contrasts with a monopsony which relates to a single entity's control of a market to purchase a good or service, and with oligopoly which consists of a few sellers dominating a market.

In microeconomics, the law of demand states that, "conditional on all else being equal, as the price of a good increases (\uparrow), quantity demanded decreases (\downarrow); conversely, as the price of a good decreases (\downarrow), quantity demanded (\uparrow)". In other words, the law of demand describes an inverse relationship between price and quantity demanded of a good.
